

Crawford Plays Last Game at Tartarville

Boyd Crawford, captain for the week, in his last athletic contest at Torrance High School sparked his Bee brothers to a 39-21 win over Leuzinger last Friday in a regular Bay League basketball game played on the Olympian's court.

Crawford, a mighty mite of a football signal-caller who co-captained the Tartar Varsity last season, was elected captain of the Bees for his last game with the Tartars.

Being groomed to replace the Bee guard is Lynn Boyce, says the Bee's mentor, Coach Eddie Cole.

High-point man for the game was Bill Baron, pivotman, who accounted for 13 of the local's points, Tom Glatras at forward, sank three field goals and a free throw to account for seven points.

The victory gave the local boys an even break with two wins and two losses in four league encounters.

Graduation Takes Four THS Stars

Torrance High School got hit right in the sports solar plexus with the graduation of the mid-winter class. The entire class, four boys, were all Tartar athletes. Leaving school via the graduation route were:

100-Acre Play Center Asked For Torrance

A 100-acre recreation center for Torrance, including a football stadium, field house, several full size baseball diamonds, swimming pool, picnic and small game areas and parking areas, is the recommendation of Elmer "Red" Moon, city director of athletics, in his 1949 report to City Council this week.

Moon recommended the 100-acre center be located centrally in the city, possibly in connection with a proposed high school to handle the increasing recreation needs of Torrance's growing population.

He also recommended getting a 99-year lease on Fern Park Playground at $1 a year for recreational purposes for the whole city whenever the ground is not in use by Fern avenue school across the street. He said the city has spent about $9000 on the playground and, in addition to the two baseball diamonds and recreation lot now installed there, he would recommend installation of a track for running events, and four tennis courts. He advised installation of lights for night play at the ball diamonds.

Outstanding in the new work of his department last year, Moon said, was the inauguration of six teams in Torrance's first women's and girls' softball league. He also expects heavy summer play this year in summer basketball on the new outdoor courts.

Summarizing the year's departmental activities, Moon said 5200 players participated on 30 teams in 11 softball leagues organized by the city. The department also cooperated with the Y.M.C.A. in organizing 200 other boys into 16 "Y" teams.

Twelve teams competed in two six-team leagues in city-sponsored basketball, and a school instruction for grammar school boys was held at the beginning of the 1949-50 season.

Because of renovation of the High School field, adult touch football was suspended for the year, but 250 boys under 13 years of age competed on 15 teams.

His department, the Y and the Optimist Club cooperated in a grade school field day which saw 123 boys competing he said. The annual invitational double elimination tournament, featuring 30 night games in August, was the highlight of the baseball season.

Moon reported a total counted attendance of 77,242 participants and spectators for the department's programs during the year with heaviest attendance (32,463) at softball games.

SANTA MONICA HANDS WARRIORS FIRST LOSS

Coach John Morrow's El Camino Warriors suffered their first Metropolitan Conference setback as Santa Monica's Corsairs edged out a 60-59 win Friday night on the local hardwood. Overcoming a 35-31 halftime deficit, the Corsairs began to plunk in free throw after free throw in a wild dramatic finish.

The win enabled Santa Monica to move into a two-way tie with El Camino for the initial berth in the loop standings.

A total of 61 personal fouls were called. El Camino's Ed Kennedy, Dick Zwaizn, George Naumann, and Ken Kesson all were banished by the five fouls route, while three Santa Monica cagers went down the same way. El Camino committed 33 fouls while the visitors were caught with only 28.

Hap Jacobs and Hugh Corrigan shared scoring honors for El Camino with 15 points each. Len Erickson accounted for 11 for the locals, Gordy Hein tanked 26 points to lead the Santa Monica attack. Sixteen of these were from the free-throw circle.

Herb Dimon, stocky lineman on Coach Eddie Cole's 1949 varsity pigskin team.

Dick Carrow, high scoring varsity basketball star and Wayne "Lefty" Scholl, south-paw basketmaker on Coach Cliff Graybehl's varsity basketball team.

Crawford is seriously considering taking a scholarship at St. Marys.

Dimon, who came from Japan to finish his schooling in the U. S., may return to service with the Army Transport Service in Germany.

The plans of Carrow and Scholl include the rough task of job-seeking.

Warriors Seek Return to Top Of Metro League

Despite El Camino's recent loss to Santa Monica the Warriors continue to hold a tie for first place in the Metropolitan Conference standings and will be out to hit the victory trail when they travel to East L.A. Friday night.

This conference tilt should be the classic of the conference. An El Camino win will put the Warriors back atop the loop standings at the close of the first round of play.

Last year El Camino won two games 73-40 and 50-40 from the Huskies and with three of the starting team back into the fold, the Warriors rate a slight edge.

Dave Taylor's Huskies boast an all-conference forward in Norman Witte, a former Mount Carmel star. Walt Albrecht and Bob Schwartz should also cause John Morrow's crew some grief on the hardwood with their sharpshooting.

El Camino will bank on the fivesome of Hugh Corrigan, Hap Jacobs, Ed Kennedy, Len Erickson and Ken Kesson. George Naumann, Paul Heid, Dick Zwaizn, Jim Cline, Jim Foxworthy, and Paul Smith will see action in reserve.

Alondra Golf Course Opens

New Links Claimed World's Longest

Alondra Park Country Club, "the longest golf course in the world" with 7460 yards of fairway, opened for public play this week in ceremonies that paid high tribute to County Supervisor Raymond V. Darby for his foresight and aid in the project.

Master of ceremonies at the dedication was Cecil Hollingsworth, an associate professor on leave from U.C.L.A., veteran operator of golf courses; and president of the corporation leasing Alondra Park who briefly recounted the history of the park from 1927 when the land was acquired under the old Matton Act until, with Darby's backing, the 180 acre tract was developed as a golf course.

Associated with Hollingsworth is Gomer "Potlicker" Sims, owner of the Sports Club cocktail bar.

Hollingsworth pointed out that through Darby's inclination to aid private enterprise, the county will get the golf course free in 20 years plus $240,000 in taxes from the corporation without paying any of the $250,000 it cost to develop the course.

Talking in front of the present clubhouse which will become locker rooms when the rest of the clubhouse is built next spring to house the lounge and grill, Hollingsworth said a driving range will be open in about 60 days and a putting green is ready for seeding.

Set up as a "power course" with some holes measuring more than 600 yards for long-driving players, the course is laid out with three sets of tees on each hole. Using the first set of tees, a golfer faces a prospect of the full 7460 yards, but if he moves up to the "ladies" tees, he can get around in 6000 yards. And there is another set of tees for those who feel a little braver than 6000, but not so brave as 7460 yards. Distances between front and back tees vary as much as 125 yards on some holes.

The regular course, and an 18 hole "pitch-n-putt" course will be restricted to 10 minute intervals of play for at least six months to give the new sod time to become established. The short course holes will range from 115 to 250 yards each.

Trees will grow up with the course to become hazards, Hollingsworth said.

Murdock, president of adjoining El Camino College; Dr. Carl Young, head of the physical education department at U.C.L.A.; Bill Johnson, director of golf courses for the City of Los Angeles, who designed the Alondra course; Bill Berresford, president of Southern California Golf Course Superintendents; and J. C. Cunningham, president of the Southern California Public Links Association, with which Alondra will be affiliated.

Gauchos Fives Finish Second

Both Narbonne basketball teams found themselves in second place in Eastern-Marine league standings as the circuit competition closed officially.

Both Gaucho aggregations forfeited their final three games as a result of the now-famed ruckus in the Narbonne gym following the Rilis meeting.

As it was the hot Gaucho Bees wound up in second place only a game behind San Pedro which finished on top in both A and B departments.
